Introduction:

HISP Nigeria is a leading health information systems services provider in Nigeria. HiSP Nigeria works with donors and the public sector to provide good quality health information for planning and management. In the last 10 years we have facilitated a rapid expansion DHIS based information products and by extension use in Nigeria. We host a yearly academy and are the trainer of choice for the federal ministry of health.

Positions:

HiSP Nigeria is expanding and we are looking for bright, driven and talented individuals to join our team. We are offering openings for facilitators to help us deliver health information management content. You must have very strong facilitation skills, very strong analytical skills, very good grounding in public health or a strong training background and a good attitude. We have positions to fill on a part-time basis i.e. we will commit you with a contract for fixed term periods. Positions include the following:

Part-time intermediate – level facilitator:

A graduate in – computer or information sciences, health sciences or social sciences, DHIS2 experience at facilitator level of at least 3yrs. You must show good evidence of teamwork, but also be a self-starter, you must be willing to travel (sometimes at short-notice), evidence of formal DHIS2 training is an advantage.

Part-time senior level facilitator positions:

A Masters or equivalent; persons with a training background will be considered first, we will also be interested in individuals with strong public health experience. Where an applicant has a good medical and or public health background with experience in providing training we will consider them first. You will also have at least 5yrs experience of working with the DHIS2. You will have at least 5yrs experience of lead facilitating and you will be willing to travel (sometimes at short notice).

Other requirements:

Residence in Abuja, Nigeria is an advantage (but not a criteria). All applicants are required to be based in Nigeria.
